What is Email Marketing?

Email marketing means sending messages to people's email inbox to tell them about your product, offer, or news.

Think of it like this:

You bought a cake once from ‘Cooper’s'. Two weeks later, they email you: 'Eid Special: 20% off your favorite cake!'

That email — that's email marketing. Simple as that.

Why Businesses Use Email Marketing

Reason	In Simple Words
Cheap	Sending 1,000 emails costs almost nothing
Direct	Goes straight to the customer's inbox, no algorithm blocking it
Personal	Can say 'Hi Rafi' instead of a generic message
Trackable	You can see who opened it and who clicked
Yours to Keep	Unlike Facebook followers, your email list belongs to you forever

Types of Marketing Emails

Welcome Email

Sent when someone joins your list — say hello!

Promotional Email

Announces a sale, discount, or new product

Newsletter

Regular update — tips, news, stories

Abandoned Cart Email

Reminds a shopper who left items unbought

🛒 Simple Example — Abandoned Cart

You add shoes to your cart on an online shop but don't buy. Next day, an email arrives: 'You left something behind! Here's 10% off to complete your order.'

Examples (Source: Klaviyo)

Brand	Email Type	What They Did (Simple)
A Bank Account	Welcome Email	MD says hello personally + gives a discount card for first order to Bata.
Fishwife (Seafood)	Product Education	Shows 9 fun ways to use their product with pictures
Chamberlain Coffee	Flash Sale	Random refund game — 5 lucky buyers get their money back
Taylor Stitch	Abandoned Cart	Sends a discount + nice photo when someone leaves without buying
Shawpno	Well-Timed Email	Sends Friday morning email exactly when people plan their shooping

What Makes These Emails Work?

Personal — feels like it's written for YOU, not everyone

Right Timing — sent exactly when the person is deciding to buy

Simple Design — one main picture, one clear message, one button

One Clear Action — 'Buy Now', 'Get 10% Off', 'Complete Your Order'

Segmented — different emails for different types of customers

Klaviyo's data: top-performing emails convert 5x more subscribers and drive 9x more revenue than generic mass emails.

Email Marketing in Bangladesh

BD Reality: Most small Bangladeshi shops only use Facebook. Very few use email — this is a big open opportunity!

🏢 Simple Example: A Dhaka Software Company (B2B)

- Step 1: Collect emails from website 'Schedule a Demo' form
- Step 2: Group contacts by industry (bank, retail, education)
- Step 3: Send a short email — 'See how our software saves you time' + Schedule a Demo button
- Step 4: Track who opened and clicked, follow up with interested ones

💡 Lesson: Even a simple 5-step email flow (list building → segmentation → personalization → mobile-friendly → tracking) can work for a Bangladeshi business.

How to Write a Simple Marketing Email

Subject: Eid Special — 20% Off Your Favorite Cake! 🎉

Hi Rafi,

Eid is almost here! As a thank-you for shopping with us, enjoy 20% off any cake this week.

ORDER NOW

See you soon,
Sweet Treats Dhaka

The Simple Email Recipe

1. Subject Line — short, curiosity or benefit ('20% Off Your Favorite Cake!')
2. Greeting — use their name if you can ('Hi Rafi')
3. One Message — don't talk about 5 things, talk about ONE offer
4. One Picture — show the product, not walls of text
5. One Button — 'Order Now', 'Shop Now', 'Get Discount'
6. Friendly Sign-off — from a real name, not 'No-Reply'

Summary & Try It Yourself

#	Key Point
1	Email marketing = sending offers/news to inbox — cheap, personal, trackable
2	5 main types: welcome, promo, newsletter, abandoned cart, transactional
3	Global brands win with personal, well-timed, simple emails (Klaviyo examples)
4	Bangladeshi businesses mostly ignore email — a big opportunity for new brands
5	Good email = short subject + one message + one picture + one button

Try It: Write one subject line + 2 sentences for your own imaginary shop's Eid offer email.
