Format of Some Interviews:

1.

Me: Good morning, Sir.

VO: Good morning. How are you?

Me: I'm fine, sir! How are you this morning?

VO: I'm fine, too!

VO: Pass me the original copies, three copies of biometric photos, and your passport.

Me: Given.

VO: After checking the documents for some time. Is this your first semester?

Me: Told

VO: When did you pass your HSC?

Me: Told.

VO: Where is your varsity (BD) located? Do you have a permanent campus?

Me: Told.

VO: Give me your portal details.

Me: Given. (My BD Uni doesn't have any portal.)

VO: Who is your VC?

Me: Couldn't remember the name. Sorry sir. I can't seem to remember.

VO: Who is the Dean?

Me: Again, I couldn't remember. (Felt so dumb, panicked, and suddenly felt blank)

VO: Interesting!! Do you even know anyone from your varsity?

Me: Suddenly, I started to remember the names of the dept. head, professors, and lecturers. (Tube light moment)

My BD university doesn't have a portal. I guess that's why he was asking about professors and lecturers. And I guess he was checking the university website to make sure of the names that I gave him, as the details of them were on the website. But that's just a guess.

VO: How many credits did you complete at your BD university?

Me: Told.

VO: Give me photocopies.

Me: Given.

VO: What is OOP?

Me: Answered.

VO: What is class?

Me: Answered.

VO: What is an Object?

Me: Answered.

VO: Can you tell me about inheritance?

Me: Told

VO: Tell me how a website works?

"During the conversation, I provided my fingerprint".

Me: Explained.

VO: Can you tell me how to make a website if I want to make one?

Me: Explained.

VO: What is frontend and backend?

Me: Explained.

VO: Can you tell me how to publish a website?

Me: Explained.

VO: Can you elaborate on domain and hosting?

Me: Explained.

VO: So, files are hosted on servers. What are servers?

Me: Explained.

VO: When employees of organizations say, "server is down", can you tell me what they mean?

Me: Explained.

VO: Ok. Nicely explained everything. Very good.

Me: Thank you, sir!

VO: Give me 8700 Tk.

Me: Given.

When I was answering questions, the printer malfunctioned, and it took about 15 minutes to fix. He gave me an apologetic look. I told him it's completely fine. Then the printer was fixed, and he kind of fastened with the passport collection receipt and briefed me about it.

VO: Gave me all the original documents along with the receipt. Thank you. You are done with the interview. Have a nice day!

Me: You too have a fantastic day, sir!

2.

Me: Hello, good morning.

VO: Good morning. Give me one set of your documents, your passport, and one photo.

Me: [Given]

VO: In which University are you going?

Me: [Told]

VO: Which program?

Me: [Told]

(The VO started reviewing my documents very carefully and seemed quite focused.)

VO: So, your Bachelor's is in Civil Engineering, and now you are going for Electronics? (With a weird facial expression)

Me: Yes, Sir. [With a smile]

VO: Why are you going to Electronics Engineering from Civil?

Me: Started to tell (interrupted)

VO: They both are related...? Why are you changing?.

Me: Yes, they both are related. I always wanted to work on modern dynamic infrastructure, that's why I chose civil engineering at first, but it was mostly based on manual processes. (interrupted)

VO: Manual?

(Again, with a weird face)

Me: Yes, in most of the courses I felt like this. And in my university life, I did some courses in electronics and(interrupted)

[Though I was answering but he was busy checking documents, I don't know if he listened to me or not]

VO: Umm...! Looking at me, then asking So.. How are they relevant?

Me: [Started to answer the same things again] VO: Every Engineering subject is working for infrastructure. Even this world is an infrastructure. They are two different engineering paths.

Me: Trying to explain with relevant course modules and others. (again interruption)

Me: Let me explain, please.

VO: No, they aren't relevant at all.... (unsatisfied face)

Me: Answering..(interrupted)

VO: I am a civil engineer graduate. You don't need to explain to me, I know. Even a CSC Engineer can say it's relevant to Electronics, and other background students can also agree.

Me: [Then I started explaining in-depth factors of relevance with course analysis.

And I also said I am passionate about it. [can't remember this part exactly]

(He looked at me with a big, worried face and smiled irritatingly)

This part was annoying for me. He was asking questions and then interrupting every time. Often, he would answer them himself. Since I had changed subjects, I was fully prepared for this question. But I didn't get the chance to answer properly. It felt like a complete debate session with a 4-year senior due to his arguments and unsatisfactory expression. If I responded in the same tone, it would have seemed like a quarrel. Though I was feeling nervous, uncomfortable, and even angry inside, I tried my best to answer everything calmly, with a smile.

(Rechecking documents and typing something)

VO: How many universities did you apply to?

Me: Three

VO: How many offer letters did you get?

Me: Three

VO: Oh. Then you choose electronics.

VO: How many credits have you completed from your previous university?

Me: 57.

VO: How many credits in Total? Me:158

VO: (Calculating) Almost one-third is completed.

Me: Yeah.

VO: No, no.....More than one-third in Civil Engineering

Me: Yeah. Try to tell something more. [interrupted]

VO: Do you know what PLC is?

Me: Sorry, I don't know.

VO: Alright. (Looking at my CV)

VO: You like to read?

Me: Yes, Sir.

VO: Good, how often do you read?

Me: Whenever I get a chance.

VO: Are you reading any book now?

Me: [Told]

VO: What is the last book you finished?

Me: [Told]

VO: How was it?

Me: Good. (He was typing something)

VO: Was it exciting?

Me: Yeah, it was. Praising Rabindranath a bit...(interrupted)

VO: Okay. So which books are you reading now?

Me: [Told]

VO: How is it?

Me: [Told]

VO: I was also reading a book. The book is about how to protect a building from collapse.... (Something like that with a disgusting smile)

Me: [Nodded]

VO: Well, please put your hand on the scanner.

Me: Okay, sir.

[He gave me instructions and I followed]

VO: Give me the visa fee

Me: [Given].

VO: Take all your original documents and the passport collection receipt. Me: [Taken]

VO: Okay, we are done. You may go now.

Me: Okay. Thank you.

My Tips for Future Applicants:

Even though I was well-prepared, my visa interview didn't go in my favor at all.

Throughout the entire interview, it felt like the Visa Officer (VO) was against me—interrupting frequently, cutting me off in the middle of my answers, and not allowing me to speak freely.

I knew tough questions would come—and I was fully prepared for them.

But I wasn't prepared for not being given the space to properly respond.

But I kept myself calm and answered everything politely, with a smile on my face. Your VO might challenge you or seem unsatisfied — but that's okay. Stay respectful, stay grounded, and give your best.

The atmosphere might not feel friendly, but you can still keep it warm and composed on your side.

And please, know your study program well, including course modules, structure, and how it aligns with your goals.

Make sure all your documents are accurate and complete.

Write a strong and convincing Letter of Motivation (LOM). It should reflect your reasoning, your goals, and your passion behind choosing the program.

If you don't know the answer to a technical question, don't panic. Just accept it politely and confidently — that's okay.

Don't hesitate to show your motivation. Even if the VO interrupts or seems uninterested, try again — this is your dream, your future.

Prepare yourself for all kinds of questions — especially about subject change, credit transfer, study gaps, and university selection.

Vo: Put your four fingers, thumb fingers.

I put my fingers 4/5 times, but it didn't work.

Then gave me a wet tissue and told me to clean my fingers. After that, it still wasn't working. Later on, he went inside and came after 2/3 minutes.

Then gave me another wet tissue and told me to clean the machine. After doing that, and also after trying for 2/3 times, it finally worked.

Vo: Give me your original docs

Vo: Thank you.

VO: No need, haven't you explained it in your motivation letter?

ME: Yes, sir, deeply and in detail.

VO: Which campus are you on?

ME: In Kamp Lintfort campus.

VO: How many campuses do you have?

me: Explained (mainly focused on research)

VO: Oh, good! (Seemed very happy to hear) And he asked some questions about my research interests and topics. (It took almost 10 minutes; I can't remember the questions now) Then he checked all my documents and asked me to provide a Biometric photo. In the meantime, he asked about my completed credits in bd, if I continued my studies after completing 25%, and about my accommodations in Germany.

VO: So, you will be living in Düsseldorf? How is the city? Is it good to visit?

Me: What I've heard, it's a good city... as I am not there yet, I can't recommend to you visit. Finally, He asked to give fingerprints and 9600/=.

Vo: Give me your passport and a photo. - Here it is.

Vo: Are you also going for a bachelor's? - Yes, sir, bachelor's.

Vo: Give me 1 set of your original documents. - Given

Vo: You almost finished your course in Bangladesh, right? - Yes, some courses are still left to complete. Moreover, when I took the appointment, I only completed 25% credit, and I did not have anything to do during the waiting period. That's why I continued.

Vo: What was your subject? - International Business

Vo: You are doing a bachelor's in Hospitality Management. Why choose International Business in Germany? (with a serious look) - It was my dream to study International Business. From when I was in Notre Dame College. If you look at my transcript, you can see that both subjects are from the business faculty. There are many courses common to both subjects, like marketing, finance, math, etc. (saw my Transcript and he seemed satisfied)

Vo: Do you think it's a wise decision to go now? - Yes, I think it's a wise decision. I believe everyone should get a quality education. And Germany is providing me with that. I could also work in HR or in supply chain Management after completing my bachelor's in international business.

Vo: What will be your biggest challenge in Germany? - Language barrier will be a problem, but my university offers language courses. I will enroll myself in those courses, and after that, there is no problem

VO: OK, give me your biometric.

Vo was writing something on the computer while the interview was ongoing. After taking my biometric. He walked to the back office and came after a few minutes.

Vo: Give me 10k taka. - Given.

Vo: So, Mr. Imamuzzaman, can you tell me what ACEU is?

Maybe it is an organization. I am not sure. Sorry (I smiled)

Vo: No, not correct (He also smiled)

Vo: This is your passport collection slip. Bring this on the day of passport collection. - Thank you, sir.

Vo: Thank you.

19.

Me: Good morning, sir.

VO: Good morning.

VO: Please provide all of your original documents, including a passport with a photo inside, and a copy of each document.

Me: Here it is, sir.

VO: Are you a bachelor's or Master's candidate?!

Me: Bachelor, sir.

He took all of my original documents and checked them one by one. Then he took my offer letter!

VO: Which subject are you going to?

Me: Sir, Infotronic System Engineering.

VO: ok, Which University?

Me: Hochschule Rhein-waal.

Then he again took my BSC marksheet and told me You are continuing your university till now?

Me: I continued my university studies here in Bangladesh till September before enrolling in Hochschule Rhein-Waal.

VO: That means last month!

Me: Yes, sir, last month.

VO: Which University are you enrolled in now?

Me: Hochschule Rhein-waal.

VO: What is your bachelor's 25% subject?

Me: Sir, Applied mathematics.

VO: So, now you are going to Infotronic System Engineering! Can you tell me how relevant?

Me: Infotronics is an Engineering subject, and every Engineering subject is deeply related to Mathematics, especially in the field of Integral and differential calculus. Also, I completed several courses in applied mathematics like Analysis and graph theory, Discrete mathematics, mechanics, Electricity and magnetism, Linear and higher algebra, all of which will be the same in my degree, Infotronic! (At these points, he told me OK, and I stopped there)

VO: What is your HSC year?

Me: Sir, I am 2020 batch, and my result was published on 30 January 2021 due to Covid.

VO: What did you do after publishing of results?

Me: I took several University admissions tests and finally enrolled myself NSTU.

VO: When did you admit to the University?

Me: 28 February 2022

VO: Tell me what you can do after completing a degree from Infotronic?!

Me: Sir, I can work as a Data analyst in the Healthcare, telecommunications sectors. Also, I can work as a cybersecurity expert and as a Control system engineer, working in fields like the oil, gas sector! Also, there is an opportunity as a telecommunications Engineer. (He also stopped me there)

VO: Why are you on Infotronic?

Me: Sir, it is the combination of Information Engineering and Electrical Engineering; also, briefly, I can say Computer Science is included in this degree.

VO: How many credits did you complete from the Bangladesh University?

Me: I completed 75 credits out of 166 credits.

VO: It seems you completed 50% of your bachelor's, so why not bachelor here?!

Me: Sir, studying abroad was my dream for the quality of education. After completing my HSC, my dream was to study subjects like Computer Science or Electrical Engineering, but at that time, I was not fortunate enough to secure those subjects in any reputed public University. Now, at this time, it's the opportunity for me to complete those two degrees together from Infotronic. (He seems satisfied)

And continuously eyeing my bachelor's transcript, the main part begins there!!

VO: In your transcript, there is a course called Tensor analysis, which tells me briefly about the course and what the real-life application of tensor analysis is.

Me: I can't say briefly about it, but I can tell you something that I learned from tensor analysis, Contravariant and Covariant tensor, tensor calculus. I can use it in simulation, modeling, and fluid dynamics!

VO: That's it?

Me: Sorry, sir, I don't know anything more right now!

VO: Do you know there are relations between tensor and Matrix!?

Me:

VO: What do you learn from vector analysis and its uses?

Me: I learn from vector analysis, Green's theorem, Stokes' theorem! By using those can find the area of a closed surface. Also, vectors are used for Navigation and Fluid mechanics.

VO: (Didn't satisfy!) Told me a vector field!

Me: Told

VO: What did you learn from Fortran programming?

Me: Sir, it is an old programming language! It is used to calculate the Summation of a Series, factorial numbers, and Fibonacci, also determine which value is greater compared to others!

VO: What are the purposes of mean, median, and mode?

Me: I told him the definition!

VO: I didn't ask you the definition. The purpose of mean, median, and mode is are same.

VO: What is an electric field?

Me: Told

VO: Tell me something about thermodynamics?!

Me: Told

Then there is a twist, he noticed that there is a spelling mistake in my marksheet!

One of my courses (Heat and Thermodynamics)

But in my Transcript (Heat and Thermodynamics)

He shows is there are any mistakes.

Me: I told him Maybe not!

After that, I realized and immediately told him in the place of A that would be E.

VO: How did this occur?!

Me: Sorry, sir, I didn't know about that! It's maybe an auto system-generated!

VO: No, it's not auto-generated!

Then he went to the other room with my transcript and came back after 7/8 minutes!

After coming back, he checked all of my document's word by word and also compared my HSC marksheet with other applicants' documents! Then again, asked me..

VO: Again, you told me you completed most of the courses from your first semester here in Bangladesh!

Me: Yes, sir, that will help me boost my confidence pursuing this degree.

At least he holds my BSc marksheet 20 times! Also, read my LOM 2/3 per a and CV.

Then again asked me a question

VO: told me your course outline.

Me: I perfectly told him everything.

VO: Told me your first semester courses!

Me: Fundamental of Computer Sciences,All said in detail.

VO: How much are your semester fees?

Me: 292.90 Euros

VO: Which city is your campus situated in?

Me: Kamp-Lintfort

VO: How many campuses?

Me: Two, one is Kleve and another is Kamp-Lintfort.

VO: When will your classes start?

Me: My classes started a few days ago, 1st October.

VO: Your offer letter says 23rd September!

Me: Sir, the first week is the welcoming week for freshers!

Me: told the name, but VO said I didn't hear this name before. Then I said maybe I pronounced it wrong. Then he said OK.

Vo: What is your HSC passing year?

Me: told

Vo: How many credits did you complete?

Me: Told

Vo: Your bachelor almost finished here, then why go for a bachelor?

Me: I applied via UniAssist.

Vo: Can you tell me the process?

Me: Yes, I uploaded my documents to UniAssist. Vo said you didn't register for Uni Assist? Oh yes. I registered to Uni Assist, then uploaded my documents then selected the universities and the subjects, and then paid the fee.. For the first application, I paid 75 euros, and for further applications, I paid 30 euros. While I was explaining the process in the meantime, V.O was repeating my every word after me.

Vo: gave me back all the documents and said you are done..Oh, wait, I forgot to give you the passport collection receipt. Here it is.

Me: Thank you. Have a good day with a smile.

Interview experience:

Me - May I come in, sir?

V.O - Yes! Sure!

Me - Good morning, sir! (with a smile😊)

V.O - Good morning! Give me all your documents & passport.

Me - Here it is, original & a set of photocopies, sir.

V.O - put them horizontally altogether.

Me - yes, sir.

V.O - Give me a biometric photo of yourself.

Me - I've already given that. You'll find that inside the passport.

V.O - Yeah! Got it.

Me - my pleasure, sir!

V.O - Why do you want to go?

Me - I want to go to Germany to complete my bachelor's course with a world-class degree certificate.

V.O - So, when did you complete your bachelor's?

Me - Sorry, sir!

V.O - When did you complete your bachelor's?

Me - Sorry, sir. But I've not completed my bachelor's yet. I'm currently enrolled in my 5th semester at my Bangladesh University, which is "X" university.

V.O - Oh! I see! Then how many semesters did you complete here?

Me - I've completed 4 semesters out of 8 semesters & as I told you before, currently I'm enrolled in 5th semester. I'm continuing my studies here till now.

V.O - Okay. How many credits have you done here?

Me - 70 credits, sir, out of 140 credits.

V.O - But here in your bachelor's transcript, I see only 56 credits & 3 semesters' result, which is 2.97.

Me - Yes, sir! That's right. The latest transcript, which contains all the credits I've completed so far, hasn't been officially published yet. But I've the unofficial copy of that transcript with me. Should I provide that to you, sir?

V.O - No need. Give me your portal details.

Me - (I gave the page where I composed everything & printed out as a hardcopy)

V.O - So, which university are you going to?

Me - (Told the university name)

V.O - What course will you be enrolling in?

Me - Bachelor of Industrial Engineering, sir.

V.O - Which course are you studying at BD?

Me - In which university, sir? In Bangladesh, I'm currently a student of the Bachelor of Computer Science and Engineering.

V.O - So you are a student of computer engineering. What do you think that your current course & extended course are related to each other?

Me - Sir, there is no direct match between these two courses. But both are engineering subjects & share a fundamental course. To give an example, I would say Math, Chemistry, Physics, Fundamental informatics for engineering, and Engineering economics are common between these two courses.

V.O - Alright! Why do you want to shift from computer engineering to industrial engineering? What is your plan?

Me - Sir, I have a deep passion for the industry. From my childhood, I have loved to observe how a massive industry runs & produce various products & spread them all over the world. From that passion, initially when I started to study my bachelor's in computer science and engineering, I explored that if I get a chance to get into industry industry-related subject, that would be an excellent fit for me & I'll be able to contribute to my country's industry, which is a developing industry.

V.O - Where is your IELTS certificate?

Me - I've already given to you! The original one is in your left hand, sir!

V.O - Oh, I see! (he slightly smiled!)

Me - my pleasure, sir!

V.O - Your enrollment certificate is already warning you.

Me - Sir, I've also noticed that. That's why I've already emailed my admission officer. But she has not responded yet.

V.O - Okay. But if I need them, I'll mail you.

Me - Alright, sir!

V.O - Where will you stay after reaching there? Have you applied for any dormitory or booked any apartment?

Me - No, sir. I've a friend who is currently doing his bachelor's in the same university I'm going to. He has an empty single room in his apartment. I've planned to move there if I get a visa. After that, I'll manage an appropriate place to stay for myself.

V.O - No! You've got a lot of time. Don't you think that a couple of years is enough to arrange proper accommodation?

Me - Obviously, sir! I'm sorry for that. But I wasn't sure whether I would get a visa or not. In addition, I also didn't have any idea that if I got a visa, then what the time frame would be. For these unavoidable facts, I was unable to arrange a proper accommodation for myself. But if I get a visa, I'll do it asap.

V.O - Nothing to be sorry here. This is a very informal way, you know? You're going to another country to acquire a higher degree. So, it is your core responsibility to ensure accommodation. Right?

Me - Yes, sir. (felt slightly nervous for a while)

V.O - However, where does your friend live?

Me - In Munich, sir. If I particularly say in (said his exact address)

V.O - This place seems nearby to your university, right?

Me - Yes, sir. He said that it takes 15-20 minutes to reach the campus on walking.

V.O - Alright. Give me 10600 BDT.

Me - (gave exact 10600 BDT)

V.O - Change these notes. These are torn. I can't accept any torn notes.

Me - (he asked to change 5 notes. But I had only 3 extra notes with me. So, I shuffled only that 3 notes & again gave it.)

V.O - Okay. Fine now. Give your biometrics fingerprints as per the instructions shown on that machine. (by indicating a fingerprint scanner.)

Me - (after giving fingerprints) Okay, Sir?

V.O - Wait. put your right thumbs again.

Me - (did as he said)

V.O - Okay, done.

Me - Can I collect my documents from here, sir?

V.O - yeah! sure!

Me - Thank you, sir!

V.O - Welcome. Here is your passport collection receipt. After getting the passport collection mail, bring it with you.

Me - Okay, sir.

V.O - Alright.

Me - Am I done, sir?

V.O - Yes, you are!

Me - Thank you, sir! Have a great day!

V.O - Thank you.
